Mr. David Shuman

Principal

Mr. David R. Shuman, principal of the Berwick High School, graduated from Susquehanna University with a B.S. degree. He completed work on his master of arts degree in the University of New York.

Teaching in the Berwick school system since 1925, Mr. Shuman first acted as instructor of physics and chemistry. In 1937 he was elected principal, which office he now fills.

During this five year period of office school authorities instituted two new courses, the industrial arts and the home economics. Homogeneous grouping was successfully attempted in the upper classes.

Sports were prosperous with basketball twice taking regional honors and the football team finishing one undefeated season and four other above average years.

Improvement in the school proper included newly-painted halls and rooms plus a modern intra-communication system. The marking system was revamped with letters substituted for numerical averages and the passing grade lowered from 70 to 60 per cent.

CLASS POEM

"A SENIOR'S DEPARTURE"

'Tis time for us to get ready and go;
236 seniors right in a row.
We've spent four years with this worthy institution,
But now our school life has come to a conclusion.
Some will go to a university or a college —
To increase, strengthen, or broaden their knowledge,
Others will seek their chosen jobs —
The rest will probably marry their old heart-throbs.

We regret the fact that our time has expired
And we must say goodbye to the school we've always admired.
To the underclassmen we give this advice —
You will use your time economically if you are wise.
To the faculty, principal, and superintendent,
We will admit that you must be commended
For serving pupils by creating intelligence
And for assisting people who must have negligence.
So good-bye to you all and a cheery farewell
It was grand being with you for such a short spell.

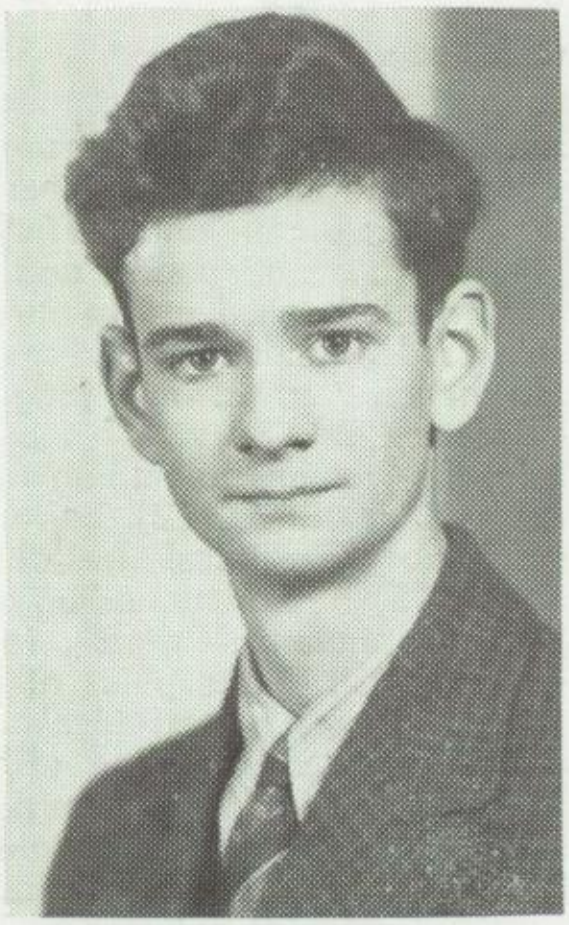
1942 B.H.S. Salutatory Address

By ROBERT ESHLEMAN, Jr.



Members of the Board of Education, Parents, Teachers, Friends, and Classmates —

Tonight it is my great honor to speak the words that bid you welcome to the 60th annual commencement of the Berwick High School. You have shown much interest in us during the last four years and your being here tonight shows this continued interest. We are now passing out into your midst and most of our success depends upon the way you receive us. Tonight, however, we play the role of hosts and as such we extend to you the friendly hand of hospitality.

Welcome to this—our commencement program.

EDUCATION FOR SURVIVAL AT THE PRESENT TIME

The theme we have chosen for this evening is Education for Survival—Now and in the Future. Some of the material for this theme is taken from an address by Dr. Francis B. Haas, Superintendent of Public Instruction, whom we wish to thank for his kind permission to use it.

Many feel that our way of life under the Constitution and its Bill of Rights, with its freedom, has come down to us and will remain with us. no matter what we may do, or fail to do; that regardless of repeated warnings that freedom is obtained at the price of eternal vigilance, we will be blessed with it eternally.

To many people now the greatest single issue confronting humanity is —can democracy endure? With all the great inventions of science and industry, we must still beware of that group of nations that would change all that we consider essential to life. So it is very obvious that the upheaval of recent years makes it certain that freedom, as conceived by Americans, must be protected and safeguarded at all times if it is to endure.

We entered this World War II as unprepared as we were when we entered World War I. It is apparent that though we made great advances in a material and scientific way, we turned those advances into the paths of peace, and did not realize that there were about us in the world nations that were not in sympathy with our way of life and our ideals, and through armed strength and developments in education and industry, would try to overthrow the ideals which we hold dear for a system of military conquest and authority. In order to do this, they are ready to bomb civilians, ruin historical landmarks and destroy the accumulated wealth of ourselves and our allies, and even go so far as to use poison gas.

We must now work harder and faster to overcome this onslaught of military might. In endurance we must be their equals; in intelligence and skill we must surpass them; in production capacity we must out-produce them. Our war materials, guns, planes, and ships must be superior, and the training of our leadership must be second to none in the world. All of these are the outcome of education.

Survival of the United States appears to involve first, the desire to achieve our ideal, and second, the ability and willingness to have ready at all times the resources to protect our way of life. These are the problems that challenge education now and in the years to come if we are to survive as a democracy.

There is something for everyone to do to throw off the threat of Axis might. American youth is doing much even now. The Boy Scouts are collecting waste cardboard, paper and metal goods of all kinds. They are selling stamps and bonds, and they have planted gardens to provide much needed foodstuffs.

In conclusion, in my judgment, "Education for Survival" must include, (1) an understanding of our own political ideal, (2) an understanding of the political ideal of other nations, (3) an understanding of the effect of antagonistic ideals, (4) an understanding of the plans of other nations to impose their ideals upon us, (5) an understanding of what other nations can do to secure domination, and (6) specific training to sustain the individual and the nation.

1942 B.H.S. Valedictory Address

By WILLIAM SPRY, JR.

It is now the end of our school days. We have completed a youth of instruction in varied fields. During that time this night has always been awaited eagerly. Now that it has come we realize that we owe a deep debt to those who have made our years in the Berwick schools a reality.

For this we sincerely thank the members of the Board of Education who have worked hard to gain and keep the high standards of the school system. To them we owe a large part of our training for their efforts in our behalf.

To our parents, who have suffered for our life and growth through the love of which they have freely given us, we extend our highest thanks. And it is our hope that as men and women we will be worthy of the sacrifices which you have undergone to aid us in acquiring our education and maturity.

Without the co-ordinating efforts of the superintendent and school principals we could not have progressed as we have. We sincerely thank you.

Teachers, you who endured us from our first days of schooling, we owe you a debt for the inspiration and aid that you have freely given to us.

From tonight this class as a unit is dead, having lived its life and served its purpose. We now pass from public school life to a part in a far greater sphere of action. We enter a world that has changed in the past few years more than in any other equal period in history. May we, with the help of God, use our coming role in life to the advantage of the nation and democracy.

THE FUTURE CHALLENGE

For twelve years we have been educated; we are now prepared to acquire an education. At the start of this year we were at the beginning of the end of our school days; now we are at the end of the beginning of life. Tomorrow we face the world. For the most part we have been thus far pampered. We now face a world in which we will have to fight for every gain we make and every step we take.

This class leaves its youth and school as other groups have done before. We have a limited knowledge of its general problems and know, for the greater part, our own ideals. It is a world of inequality, though in the largest sense, all men are created equal.

We, as thousands of others, enter the rigorous role of life with the idea that it is our destiny to be successful, to overcome our problems and sorrows and attain our ambitions. Today we stand as a part of that youth, ready to fight and strive for a world one bit better for our having entered.

Yet fifty years from now graduating classes will have much the same aims and problems. Youth will still strive toward goals, and they will be almost as far in the distance as those of today. Men will still fight and starve and die, in the never ceasing struggles of the world; the struggles that while horrid to the senses are glorious for their hopes and fears.

It is ours to know that far, somewhere, as a result of this turmoil, there will be peace on earth and democratic security for mankind. That is the goal and challenge; the goal which led the Jews from Egypt; that shone in ancient Greece; that created and maintains the U.S.; that has flickered gloriously through the annals of man. It is ours today as it was yours and will be our sons.

We are ordinary young men and women, a part of a solid group which makes the American Nation. We are a yet smaller section of those men and women throughout the world, who, like us, are prepared to strive for a better, peaceful, democratic land.

That which we will do as a class is insignificant. That which will be done by the youth of the democratic lands will be told for the history of the ages. Little by little, as you have done as youth and men, we, in our turn will advance. And in the future others shall also take up the strife to continue that slender thread of liberty which has motivated most of the main actions of the past, and will continue to do so in the future.

We will fight and die that it may live. We will not see its final completion, nor will our sons, or our grandsons, but we progress knowing that its coming is an inevitable event in some part of the future.

This is our challenge; it was yours and will ever be that of democratic generations. We are held, as much as our fathers who established this land were held, to continue the traditions of American Democracy. We pledge ourselves to further it to a more nearly perfect end to make it strong, and insure its permanence among the nations of the world.

It is for us so to live in conformity to that challenge that we shall never be afraid to die: to follow and lead, as well as we may, the world to a better form, though our contribution will be small. It is our dream that, in the end, there will be a land, an earth, a joyous and beautiful land, where peace, hope, and security will reign for all men.

Militant Democracy

The world of aggressor nations is learning at last that democracy is not effeminate or impotent to act in an emergency. It is being demonstrated that democracy is literally dynamite — with an exceptionally long, slow-burning fuse. Our lateness in getting under way has been misleading the totalitarian nations, and now they are amazed at the rapid military preparations we are making.

Democracy is an experimental social science pointing towards a fusion of moderated socialism, unselfish capitalism and Christian humanitarianism. It is a compliment to any country to have labored as long as we have to put democracy to work on a large scale. It is the most complicated, elaborate and difficult of all the tested forms of society. Few nations have made it work out satisfactorily. We have given it a shape that is now attractive, and we have provided it with a vigor that is a major surprise to the larger authoritarian countries.

The people of the world must not be led to take democracy for granted. We believe it to be the inevitable universal social order, but we know well that its successful operation requires the efficient service of a well regulated system of public schools. The better our educational program the higher the quality of our democratic processes, and the finer our democratic institutions prove themselves to be the more satisfactory will be the schools that the people establish.

American history reveals that there is a close connection between democracy on the one hand and science, art, philosophy and scholarship on the other hand. In those parts of the current world where democracy has been overthrown or prevented from developing, the fine arts and the sciences have failed to flourish. Where democracy has remained strong there has been a continuous encouragement of thought, research, authorship and creative art.

Democracy is capable of full fruition only when there is every evidence of cooperative effort on the part of the so-called common people. Right now in the United States the masses of our citizens have joined hands and pooled their resources for the purposes of overthrowing the forces that have been opposing the freedom of the human spirit and the democratic way of life.

By means of this all-out devotion to the preservation of liberty and justice we are giving some new ingredients to our concept of the scope and meaning of democracy. Our young people will carry on during the span of their lives and give us a still richer purpose and value in life. We are one of the strongest of the United Nations that will in the near future be moving toward a victorious termination of this war, and it will be the militant democracy of America that will turn the tide in the direction of success and happiness for all who prefer to live in peace and contentment with their neighbors.

CLASS NIGHT

President's Address

Friends, classmates, and fellow-citizens, it is a pleasure to have you here tonight to join us in this, our last gathering as Seniors of Berwick High School.

Never in the history of our school has a class been graduated when world conditions have been more acute and when our American way of life more endangered. With this situation in mind we have chosen for our class night program a pageant, the theme of which is the struggle, we, as Americans have had to win and hold our most treasured possessions; our freedom.

Through the years our people have worked, fought, and sacrificed their lives that we today might have freedom and liberty. Time after time since the birth of our nation its liberty loving people have seen the light of freedom grow dim, but with the undaunted courage that characterizes our brave Americans they have sacrificed everything to give their people that great freedom of life that we enjoy today.

When we think of the young people in the war torn countries who are denied the great freedom of thought, freedom of action, and pursuit of happiness we bow our heads in deep gratitude that we live in America. Let us pause to review tonight this great heritage that is ours so that we, the citizens of tomorrow, can better appreciate the struggle of the past and be more prepared to meet the crisis that faces our country today.

As the nation turns to its defense, and as we in Berwick see the tanks rolling from the American Car and Foundry plant daily the class of 1942 of Berwick High School, recognizing the part its members must eventually play, present "Our American Freedom" in order that you and I may know exactly what resources we have with which to defend our shores.

Our class does not inform you of your natural resources, but of your spiritual resources. For all your coal and oil and land, your copper and your labor power means little for defense unless each one of you knows what he is defending. So tonight we bring you "Freedom Forever".

Summary of "Freedom Forever"

America calls from the past those who have contributed most in the building of this nation. They tell what they have done to give liberty and freedom in order that you will know better how to preserve their priceless gift.

Students depict scenes in chronological order from the time when Indians roamed to the days of the present World War.

Time passes on the stage as the history of the U.S. is unfurled — from the days of the Indians, to the settlings of the Puritans, the Revolutionary War, the signing of the Declaration of Independence, the adoption of the Constitution, the reading of the Monroe Doctrine, the conquering of the wilderness the Civil War, the Gettysburg Address, immigration, World War No. 1, and World War No. 2.

Mantle Oration

by ROLAND WEAR, JR.

As president of the Class of 1942 I welcome you, the Class of 1943.

You are about to undertake the responsibilities of leadership which we have held for the past year. Those responsibilities should not be taken lightly. We, as underclassmen, always respected and admired the senior class and longed for the time when we would take our place as seniors. We strived through this past year to maintain the high standards of previous senior classes. You juniors have an important duty before you. That duty is one of being honorable, conscientious seniors. We, the graduating class have an even more important duty or obligation to fulfill. That obligation is one of being honorable, conscientious, cooperative Americans. You may ask what the tie between a cooperative student and an American is. The student's schooling is the foundation of the individual. Those who cooperate in school will cooperate later as American citizens. In these trying times, our nation needs this type of American.

Many in our class are already helping in the war effort, and others will be "pitching in" immediately after the close of school. One of our former classmates is even now in the armed forces of the United States. Others are working at night in our vital defense industries, or shall we now call them offense industries. Prospective nurses and others who are essential to our all-out effort are graduating with our class.

Why should we do all this for America? The pageant presented this evening helps to answer that question.

A few weeks ago the underclassmen scheduled subjects of their own choice for the coming terms. In Germany or Japan they would not have received this privilege. After we seniors graduate, we will select a life's work according to our choosing. In Germany or Japan we would follow orders from birth till death. American freedom is worth fighting for and worth sacrificing for. Our sacrifices thus far cannot be compared wtih those of the people of Washington's or Lincoln's day. They fought to give us freedom. We must fight to retain it. Let us all "pitch in" with a will.

This classic mantle represents the ideals and standards of all senior classes. Guard these standards zealously. Continue to uphold its traditions and to set a splendid example for the following senior classes.

I therefore in behalf of the Class of '42 present you with this mantle.

Junior Acceptance

by HARRY CALLEY

It gives me great pleasure to accept this mantle in behalf of the Class of 1943, from the Class of 1942.

In all sincerity we, the Class of 43, will do our utmost to uphold the fine example set by former classes.

We have looked forward with great anticipation, to the time when on us should fall the responsibility of preserving the traditions of this, our cherished high school.

We now accept the challenge that goes with the transfer of this mantle.

The youth of America is being called upon to adapt itself to rapidly changing conditions. Because of this fact our Alma Mater has made many changes during your career as Seniors in order to better prepare you to meet the changed times. This condition may increase in intensity rather than decrease during our term as Seniors, but we shall do our best to meet these new demands without lowering our high intellectual standard.

We believe in our schools; we believe in the United States of America. We accept this mantle and the duty it obligates. We shall always love it, support it, protect it, respect it and defend it.

Quill and Scroll Award

The officials of the International Honorary Society for High School Journalists presented the Quill and Scroll to William Spry and Margaret Mandrillo, Co-editors of the Blue and White.

William Spry worked faithfully on the staff for four years. During his sophomore year he was assistant sports editor. As a Junior, he edited the sports page as well as writing news stories. His ability in all phases of journalism won for him the editorship in his Senior year.

Margaret Mandrillo has also been a staff member for four years. Reliability and hard work coupled with fine quality of her journalistic workbook gained her the appointment of editor.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON

"Life As A School"

TEXT: Ever learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth." II Tim. 3:7

Shakespeare said: "All the world's a stage, and all the men and women in it merely players." It would be just as true to say: "All of life's a school, and all the men and women in it merely students." School days never end. "Commencement" is the term applied to the end of a course of study. "Continuation" would be an even better term. We are "ever learning, yet never able to come to a full knowledge of the truth."

The Jewish Talmud says: "Students are of four kinds; they are like a sponge, a funnel, a strainer, and a sieve: like a sponge that sucketh all up; like a funnel which receiveth at one end and dischargeth at the other; like a strainer which letteth the wine pass but retaineth the lees; and like a sieve which dischargeth the bran but retaineth corn."

Some are "like a sponge." They have an acquisitive nature. They are interested in quantity rather than in quality. This principle applies elsewhere. There are those who grab all the money they can, not being squeamish as to how it is secured; still less as to how it is used. Some do this with their pleasures. The sponge not only sucks up all it can get, but also holds it. To get anything out of it you have to squeeze it. The true principle of life, however, is that he who would have his life must lose it. What we do we should do "not grudgingly, or of necessity."

Some are "like a funnel". Just the opposite of the sponge. They hold nothing. Things "go in one ear and out the other." It is very easy to let things slip away. A very superficial type of life is thus produced. The principle of retention must be observed if character is to be developed. We cannot let the good and valuable things escape and continue to grow. We suffer physically when we cannot retain the food we eat, and we will suffer spiritually if we fail to digest and retain a large part of the good things we hear. "We ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we would let them slip."

Then there are some who are "like a strainer." They let the valuable escape, but retain the inferior. Some can retain all light trivial things, but do not retain the weighty important. A worthwhile life cannot be built upon the trivial and funny. There is a proper place and a proper proportion for these, but not the major place nor time. Life is too important to waste in trivialities. The foundation of a building is its most important part. Yet if you are to have an edifice you must have more than a foundation. The strength of the foundation will not keep an inferior super-structure from tumbling to ruins. You can spoil all that God has hoped and planned for you if you retain the trivial and lose the weighty.

And some are "like a sieve". Here is your ideal student. He sifts and discriminates. He does not grab up everything and hold it. He does not let everything he hears pass right through him. He doe not let the good escape and retain the bad. He lets the inferior go and retains the superior. He shakes, examines and scrutinizes things. Thus he discovers the true value of the things that life presents.

It is in this conception of life we should find our ideal and our hope. Not amount, but content; not bulk, but weight should be our determining factors. If we are to be morally stable we must be morally aristocratic. Not every spirit should be believed, but only those that are of God. Not everything should be retained but only those that have been proven to be good. We never graduate from the school of life. In it we are "ever learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth" in any absolute or perfect sense.

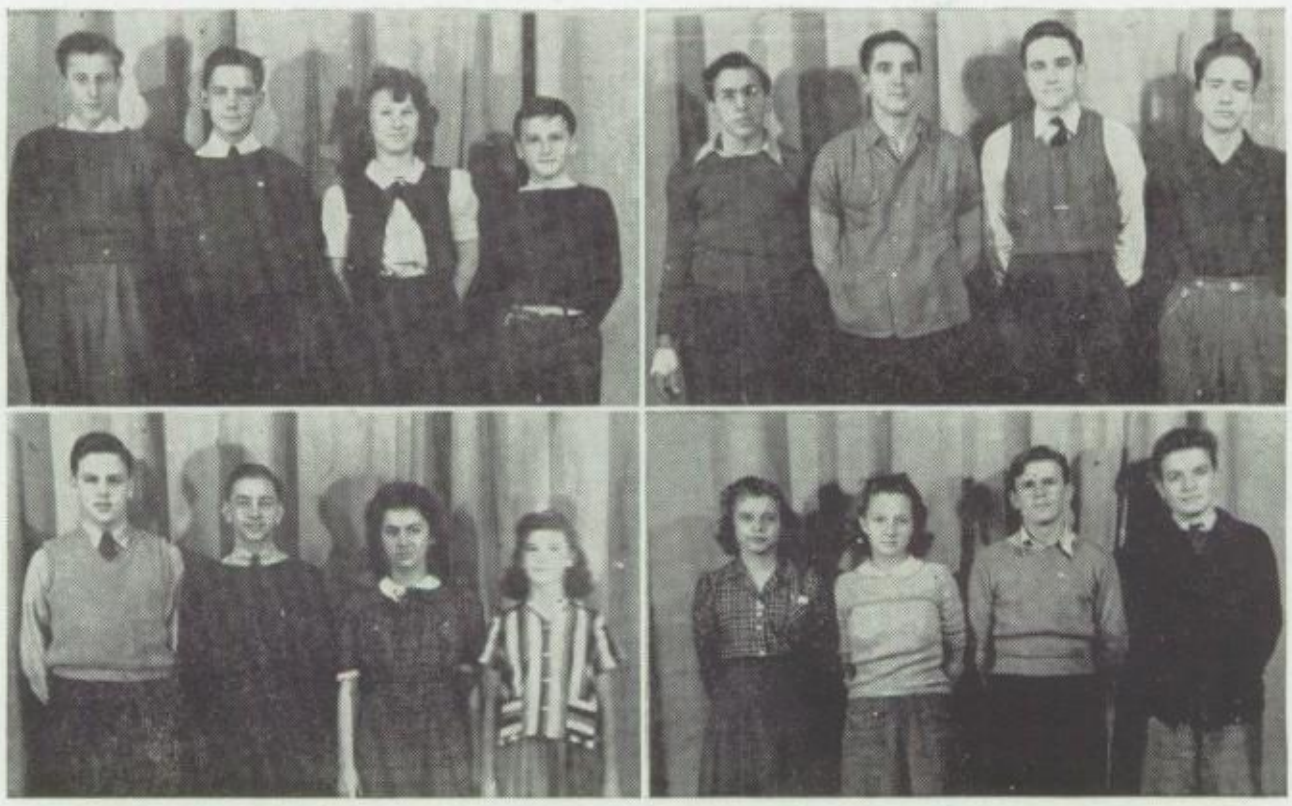
Senior Drama

The Senior Class presented "What a Life", a three-act comedy chosen for the annual senior drama at the Nescopeck High School auditorium on Friday, April 24th. This is the first year a senior drama has not been held in the high school auditorium, but due to a fire which destroyed the stage the play could not possibly be enacted here.

Henry Aldrich, a problem child of Central High School, spends most of his time in the principal's office. When Henry is not lying, he is fighting, cribbing, collecting old shoes, drawing caricatures of his teachers, talking in study period, or flunking examinations. As a typical American boy he delights in breaking the heart of Barbara Pearson, an honor student, and president of her class. He confides to her that Hamlet killed himself because "he couldn't take it." Having invited Barbara to the Spring Dance, and then suspended for cheating, Henry has to invent a dying uncle in Denver as an excuse for backing out. Later he is accused of stealing instruments belonging to the school band, but Henry is released when George Bigelow, another honor student, confesses to the crime. The curtain descends with Henry, his reputation cleared, again asking Barbara to go to the dance.



Junior Class Officers: Edwin Bittenbender, Roland Lenhart, Helen Kliss, and Harry Calley.

Freshman Class Officers: Arthur Arndt, Jr., Richard Kile, Midge Fuller, and Sophie Kirylich.

Junior-Senior Prom

Seven hundred students and guests attended the annual Junior-Senior Prom held at West Side Park, May 13.

"Welcome Class of '42" was the greeting which appeared in the entrance to the ballroom and the farewell sign at the exit read "Farewell Seniors".

Lee Vincent's orchestra furnished the music for the occasion. During intermission soda, cake, ice cream, and candy were served.

The dance floor was patriotically decorated with red, white, and blue streamers. Balloons were showered upon the dancers and were hastily snatched for souvenirs — if not broken immediately.

And so the gala affair of the year passes and remains but another memory to us.

Band Concert

Th B.H.S. band, performing on the floor of the high school's burned stage, concluded another of its yearly concerts. Playing before an audience that filled the auditorium, they entertained for an hour and one quarter with a series of eight selections.

Espana Rhapsodie, Gopak, The Three Solitaires, The Big Bad Wolf, Bad'ner Mad'ln; The Death of Custer, The Universal Judgement, and the Star Spangled Banner completed their musical rentinue. Earl Wise, Jr., Donald Kemp, and Robert Sutliff were the evening's soloists. One descriptive piece, The Big Bad Wolf was featured.

Mr. Llewellyn awarded sweaters to fourteen seniors during the concert. Those receiving this award were: Christine DeSalse, Elizabeth Ann Dietrichson, Russell Norris, Jr., Richard Harner, Leah Bailey, Jack Knorr, Minor Arey, Andrew Dendler, Kenneth Ness, Joseph Wintersteen, Charles Dorazio, William Hosler, Earl Wise, Jr., and Ronald Stout. Joseph Wintersteen, president of the band organization, then presented Mr. Llewellyn with a gift on behalf of the band members.

Due to a lack of curtains, band members filed on the stage, and the concert began shortly after 8:15 p.m. "We Did It Before" was played as the introduction.

Editor for Next Year

Gloria Reimer will head the staff of Berwick High School's Blue and White next year with Irene Wansock as assistant editor.

The selection was based upon the experience these students had and the quality of their journalism workbook.

Gloria Reimer joined the staff in her sophomore year. During this year she wrote feature stories as well as news stories. Her increasing knowledge of journalism and her hard work throughout her junior year resulted in her appointment as editor.

Irene Wansock joined the Blue and White staff this year, but the exceptionally fine quality of work in her journalistic book, her ability to write news stories and feature stories and her reliability gained for her the the appointment of Assistant Editor.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

1938-'39

In September, nineteen hundred and thirty-eight we, as a class of 277, entered into B.H.S. with an honor group of 45 students.

Miss Clarissa Hidlay, new Latin instructress, accompanied us into high school.

Our class advisors, Miss Yeager and Mr. Ruch, chose the following students to guide us during the first semester.

President ..... Sterling Smith
Vice-President ..... Mary Basher
Secretary ..... Margaret Mandrillo
Treasurer ..... Roland Wear, Jr.

Following the usual custom we were then placed under the subjection of our "Superior Sophomores" who humiliated us for one long week. (From September 26-30)

Some of our initiation duties were:

1. All girls will wear one anklet and one stocking while the boys must wear a coat turned inside out.

2. Freshmen will carry books from class to class in a paper sack.

3. To change sex for a day the boys will wear makeup and the girls will wear black mustaches.

4. Each student will wear the customary cardboard sign with names printed on for identification.

We made our debut into the social life of Berwick High at the Freshman Welcome Party, Friday, October 7. At this time Miss Elaine Belles was elected "Miss 1942" and Mr. Dick Hess, "Mr. 1942."

This was a year of Club organization with the Dramatic Club being organized by Miss Mildred Moody, the Booster Club by Mr. Elmer McKechnie, and a Debating Club by Miss Jessie Eves and Miss Mary Aller.

New uniforms were purchased for the Band members through the untiring effort of the Band Mothers. Pierre Henrotte was the guest conductor at this year's concert which was dedicated to the American Legion.

Our Alma Mater received a new coat of paint in the halls.

Basketball ranked high that year. Sport results were: Baseball: won 3 and lost 4; Football: won 5 and lost 5.

In Basketball we really outshone the surrounding areas by winning 16 and losing only 3, almost winning the Eastern Pennsylvania Championship.

The second semester was opened with the election of the following officers:

President ..... Jim Reap
Vice-President ..... Mary Basher
Secretary ..... Andrew Dendler
Treasurer ..... Earl Wise

At the close of our Freshmen year, scholastic honors were bestowed upon William Spry and Margaret Mandrillo honorable mention.

School began September, 1939. Our class officers for this year were:

President ..... Jim Reap
Vice-President ..... Joyce Hutchins
Secretary ..... Sterling Smith
Treasurer ..... Jane Laubach

We were greeted this year by two new teachers, Miss Marjorie Orr, librarian; and Mr. Ray McBride, teacher of shorthand and typewriting.

This year it was our turn to inflict a drastic punishment upon the Freshman class.

Miss Hetler organized a sewing club which was enthusiastically received by the girls of B.H.S.

Roland Wear was announced Sophomore winner of the Short Story contest sponsored by the Blue and White.

Sports found Berwick's team well rated. We won 11 and lost 8 games in basketball finishing third in League competition. We won 9 out of eleven football games.

Nick Lelo celebrated his fourth birthday on February 29 although actually he was 16 years old.

Three members of our sophomore class reached a high goal in Scout membership when Michael Slavish, Paul Yevich, and Andrew Yevich attained Eagle rank.

Earl Wise was awarded a prize for his landscape picture in the Blue and White photography contest.

The end of the year found the faculty less one member when Miss Louise Yeager married Mr. J. B. Flesher.

1940-'41

Our class officers for our third year were:

President ..... Roland Wear
Vice-President ..... Andrew Yevich
Secretary ..... Andrew Dendler
Treasurer ..... William Hosler

Miss Ruth Fairchild replaced Miss Louise Yeager as our class advisor.

New faces among the faculty were Miss Ruth Fairchilds, Home Economics; Mr. Michael Habian, Manuel Training; Thomas Hartman, Harold Border, and Richard Bevilacqua.

Beside two new courses, Bible study was also added to the curriculum. Other innovations included a new system of grading and fluorescent lighting in four rooms and library. A new gymnasium was proposed but the bond issue did not pass the vote of the taxpayers.

The Junior class elected their rings and awarded the order to the Baer's Jewelry Store.

For the first time in eight years the B.H.S. cheering squad purchased new uniforms.

Fred Clewell was the Junior winner of the Blue and White short story contest and Leah Bailey received honorable mention. Mildred Slusser won the photography contest.

Coach Bream Physical Director In Navy

Lieutenant C. C. Bream, former B.H.S. coach and now physical instructor in the U.S. Navy, was one of two hundred coaches accepted from six thousand noted applicants thruout the land. Selected along with sports mentors such as Major Bernie Bierman, Minnesota coach; Sam Barry, head coach of Southern California; and Charlie Speidel of Penn State; he now holds the rank of lieutenant, junior grade.

Coach Bream came to Berwick schools in 1928. During different times of his stay he coached football, baseball, and basketball. In the fourteen years, he produced three Keystone League basketball champions, three district four basketball championships, and two P.I.A.A. regional championship squads. His baseball and football teams also met with success.

The faculty lost one more member when Miss Florine Moore married Mr. Lawrence Piatt. The engagement of Miss Ruth Fairchild to Mr. Frank Hagenbuch was announced.

A keen loss was felt by the Junior class upon the death of Marian Shotwell on May 15, 1941.

Our really big affair of the year was the sponsoring of the Junior-Senior Prom at West Side on May 23.

Robert Eshleman was awarded the scholastic prize for the highest average while William Spry, Jean Martz, Phyllis Baer, and Betty Vandermark were honorable mention. Jean Martz received the girl's American history prize and Shirley Buell was honorably mentioned. William Spry received the boy's prize and Robert Eshleman was honorably mentioned.

SENIOR YEAR
1941-'42

Those chosen to head us in our last year were:

President ..... ROLAND WEAR, JR.
Vice-President ..... JAMES REAP
Secretary ..... ANDREW DENDLER
Treasurer ..... JAMES DOHERTY

New faces among the faculty this year were Miss Violet Grigg, Miss Dorothy Savage, Miss Muriel Engelke, and Miss Ruth Merrion. Miss Jennie Birth and Mr. Roger Davis, having taken a year's sabbatical leave, returned to B.H.S. to teach.

William Spry and Margaret Mandrillo were appointed co-editors of the Blue and White and Joan Trapane, Thurley Belford, Katie Pasak, and Frances Fink worked hard to type the material for the school paper.

The first social event sponsored by the Seniors was the Hallowe'en Dance.

An outstanding feature of the year was the forming of a girl's drill team which was outfitted by the Band Mothers.

According to custom the Senior class took over the task of feeding the hungry fans at Crispin Memorial Field during the football season.

With eleven games, eleven wins, and only two teams able to score on Bulldog power, Berwick ended the most successful football season in its history, being the highest scoring high school team in Pennsylvania, winners of the Wyoming Valley Conference, and possessor of the best season record in the state. The Jayvee squad followed the varsity in an undefeated season. Those who received football awards were: Joe Colone, James Reap, Mike Krepich, Glen Kocher, George Reagan, Sam DeFebo, Raymond Stout, Dane Eveland, Alonzo Pruitt, Charles Wentzel, Mike Sabrick, and Joe Marinaro. Two cheerleaders, Jane Laubach and Margaret Brown, were presented with silver footballs.

Replacing the telephones and note carrying brigade, a new two-way loudspeaker system was installed.

Fire twice threatened the main structure of B.H.S. on January 28 as cigarettes were responsible for two serious blazes.

Cupid certainly struck the faculty — Miss Ruth Fairchild married Mr. Frank Hagenbuch, Miss Betty Dent married Mr. Harold Border, Miss Dorothy Scheckler married Mr. Harold Lanterman, and Miss Edna Keller became engaged to Mr. Ray McBride.

In basketball Berwick won the Wyoming Valley League, District Two, and the regional honors only to be defeated by Lower Merion for the Eastern Championship title. The Jayvees came through with an undefeated season. B.H.S. suffered a great loss when Mr. Bream departed for the Navy.

The Senior Girl's team was the intramural basketball champions of the year.

The most outstanding social event of the year was the Senior sponsored May Dance. Miss Jane Laubach, escorted by Joseph Colone, held court at West Side Park after her coronation there. She was crowned by Miss Doris Haines, Maid of Honor, who was escorted by James Reap, Prince. The attendants and their escorts were: Betty Boudman, Louise Mageovage, Joyce Hutchins, Margaret Helen Bevilacqua, Jennie Rhinard, Gloria Dawn Raseley, Mildred Slusser, Elaine Fink, Dick Hess, Samuel DeFebo, Robert Bower, Joe Wintersteen, Hayden Firth, Roland Wear, George Reagan, and Russell Norris. Due to illness Russell Norris could not participate in the procession and was replaced by James Doherty.

A catastrophe struck B.H.S. when fire completely destroyed the stage one week before the Senior drama, "What a Life". The undaunted Seniors, however, after being told they could use the Nescopeck stage, immediately set to work and both characters and stage setting were ready for April 24. Joseph Benscoter, as Henry Aldrich, had the lead in the play.

Another event which marked the beginning of the end was the sophisticated Prom which the Junior Class sponsored in honor of the Seniors.

Honor students were named and were as follows: William Spry, valedictorian; Robert Eshleman, salutatorian; Margaret Mandrillo, Jean Martz, Andrew Yevich, Eileen Falvey, Phyllis Baer, Shirley Buell, Christine DeSalse, Betty Vandermark, Charles Wentzell, Kenneth Ness, William Hosler, Sara Costello and Roland Wear.

It was decided to have a theatre party which was followed by a nickelodeon dance in the high school gym as the Senior Farewell party.

Baccalaureate, the Class Night, and the Commencement exercises were held at Crispin Memorial Field. This is the first year graduation exercises were held outside.

On May 29 we left our Alma Mater never again to return as students.
